Dan Swartz is a maker of things, and the founder and curator of Wunderkammer Company. After an internship with a local gallery in Fort Wayne, Indiana, in 2005, Swartz was inspired to create a unique space to nurture and house even more unique, creative programming, giving Fort Wayne audiences a direct tie to the contemporary culture being produced locally, and giving them access to a contemporary dialogue, competing globally for attention, respect, and funding.

Dan has lived in New York City where he worked for artists, curatorial collectives and artist publications, galleries, art centers, collectors and auction houses. Eventually, he began curating exhibitions and writing about art more than making art objects. Swartz's work became more about the construction of communities grounded deeply in social aesthetics. This eventually allowed him to move back to his home in Fort Wayne to build Wunderkammer Company. Outside of working for Fort Wayne's Downtown Improvement District and Arts United of Greater Fort Wayne as Cultural District Liaison, Swartz was also able to curate public works for Art-Prize in Grand Rapids (2010), and participate in a curatorial residency in Beijing, China (2011).

about the music:

The Changing Elements Band

returns again this year, with their all original music and has combined folk, funk, tribal drums, deep lyrical content, an open minded spiritual backdrop. An added ironic twist occurred when additional musicians joined in; keyboard player Kent English and inspiring band member Kenny White. We hope you enjoy them as much as we do. TCEB has had a busy year and their debut CD has been made and have performed at our popular festival Town Creek Live.
